

GOGELIN
DESIGNERS

2024 Interior Design Trends

Photo by The Nordroom

Photo by Matti Gresham Photography

The Year of the “Both/And” Floor Plan

“In 2024, interior design embraces a hybrid approach with multipurpose spaces and tailored function-specific areas, responding to changing living needs post-COVID*.”

*Architectural Digest

Bold & Beautiful Finishes

“Expect a departure from subdued tones as the new year introduces bold colors, fabrics, and finishes in interior design*.”

*Architectural Digest

Photo by Reagan Taylor for JL Design

Cozy Quiet Luxury

“A shift towards relaxed and casual luxury is expected, with a preference for comfortable, lived-in furniture over sleek, sterile looks*.”

*House Beautiful

Photo by CHAD MELLON OF STUDIO MELLON

Handmade Elegance

“Homeowners seek uniqueness through bespoke elements like handmade tiles, custom vanities, lighting, window treatments, and rugs, rejecting the ordinary*.”

*Forbes

Foto by Yoshihiro Makino

Bid adieu to cream bouclé

“Farewell to Solid Colors: AD100 designer Josh Greene foresees the end of solid colors, making way for two-tone bouclé and plush, durable fabrics like chenille*.”

*Architectural Digest

Biophilic Design Prevails

“Embracing nature indoors remains a dominant trend, focusing on connectivity to natural elements through biophilic design principles*.”

*Insider.com

Photo by ©KIE

Innovative Sustainable Materials

“Designers anticipate a surge in sustainable materials, from seaweed lamps to mycelium features, reflecting a broader commitment to intentional sustainability*.”

*House Beautiful

Hotel interior featuring MushLume installation. Photo & design of MushLume lamps by Danielle Trofe

Comforting Curves

“Rounded shapes take Center stage in 2024, Adorning homes for their inviting and comforting qualities*.”

*Insider.com

Brown Renaissance

“Design trends move away from grays into browns, not just in fabrics but also in cabinetry and case goods, marking a resurgence of chocolate neutrals*.”

*House Beautiful

GOGELEIN
DESIGNERS

WWW.GOGELEIN.COM